at 0400 on Monday 01 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cold and cloudy, turning wet and mild.

Today:
A frosty start for some with sunny spells around the coasts. Remaining mostly dry but occasional outbreaks of mostly light rain and snow over hills, easing after lunchtime. Clear spells developing in the north of the country. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Tonight:
Winds strengthening and showers along south coast. Widespread and heavy rain later, progressing northeast through the night, possibly falling as snow over hills, brining risks of disruption and icy stretches. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Tuesday:
Mild, but windy. A brief dry and bright interlude once morning rain has cleared, followed by widespread, heavy, and blustery showers. Potentially very heavy or wintry over hills. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Windy, mild and mostly dry Wednesday, but risks of heavy showers and coastal gales possible. Sunny spells and showers Thursday. Remaining unsettled and turning cloudier and cooler Friday.
